

Executive Proclamation

Office Of The Governor

WHEREAS, McIntosh, South Dakota, county seat of Corson County, was named after the McIntosh brothers, subcontractors in charge of building the Milwaukee Railroad grades across the Standing Rock Reservation; and,

WHEREAS, Watauga, South Dakota, which derives its name from a Sioux Indian word, is a friendly community that was established on U.S. Highway 12, also known as the famous Yellowstone Trail; and,

WHEREAS, Labeled by a McIntosh Commercial Club pamphlet as "The Place to Buy Good Land Cheap," McIntosh issued its first newspaper, the McIntosh Globe, on November 26, 1908, under C.S. Clemenson; and,

WHEREAS, The Watauga newspaper was called the Watauga Progress and it was published by blacksmith W.I. Longstreth. When the town was platted, it was discovered that the general store was in the middle of Main Street, and it had to be moved; and,

WHEREAS, Seventy-five years later, both these towns are still going strong and playing good neighbor to our friends in North Dakota; and,

WHEREAS, This summer, McIntosh and Watauga are celebrating their Diamond Jubilees with festive celebrations and commemorations. Included in the three days of funseeking are frog races, horseshoe pitching, parades, puppet shows, and plenty of dancing and eating; and,

WHEREAS, The community pride in towns like Watauga and McIntosh make a substantial contribution to the quality of life in South Dakota; and,

WHEREAS, For Watauga and McIntosh, 75 years are history, but the best is yet to come:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. JANKLOW, Governor of the State of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim July 15, 16 and 17, 1983, as
